Naturopathic Medicine is the treatment and prevention of disease by natural means. Naturopathic Doctors assess the whole person, taking into consideration physical, mental, emotional and spiritual aspects of the individual. Gentle, non-invasive techniques are generally used in order to stimulate the body's inherent healing capacity.

A number of different approaches may be used throughout the course of treatment. Treatment modalities include diet, lifestyle counselling, clinical nutrition (primary via supplementation), botanical medicine, homeopathy, Asian medicine and acupuncture, hydrotherapy, and physical medicine

Individual diets and nutritional supplements are recommended to address deficiencies, treat disease processes, and promote health. The benefits may include increased energy, improved gastrointestinal function, enhanced immunity, and general well-being.

Botanical medicine is plant based medicine that involves the use of herbal teas, tinctures, capsules, and other forms of herbal preparations to assist in recovery from injury and disease.

Homeopathy is a form of medicine based on the Law of Similars; that is, the use of tiny doses of the very thing that causes symptoms in healthy people. These minute doses, of plant, animal, or mineral origin, are used to stimulate the body's ability to heal itself. Homeopathy is a powerful tool that effects healing on a physical and emotional level.

Asian medicine includes the use of acupuncture, Eastern herbs and dietary changes to eliminate disease and balance body functions. Acupuncture refers to the insertion of sterilized disposable needles through the skin into underlying tissues at specific points on the body. Eastern herbs may be given in the form of pills, tinctures, or decoctions (strong teas). Dietary advice is based on traditional Chinese medical theory.

Physical medicine refers to the use of hands-on techniques such as soft tissue and spinal manipulation, as well as various types of electrical stimulation for the purpose of treating musculoskeletal and neurological problems.

Lifestyle counselling involves identifying risk factors and making recommendations to help optimize one's physical, mental, and emotional environment.

During your initial visits, your Naturopathic Doctor will take a thorough case history and perform a basic/complaint-oriented physical examination, and when indicated, take urine samples for further testing, or blood samples for lab investigation.

Even the gentlest therapies may cause complications in certain physiological conditions. This depends greatly on the individual and the extent of the illness. Some therapies must be used with caution in certain diseases such as diabetes, heart, liver or kidney disease. It is very important, therefore, that you inform your naturopathic doctor immediately of any disease process that you are suffering from as well as any medications (prescription or over-the-counter) that you are taking. If you are pregnant, suspect you are pregnant, or you are breast-feeding, advise your doctor immediately.

Health risks associated with Naturopathic Medicine include but are not limited to:

- Aggravation of pre-existing symptoms during the healing process.
- Allergic reactions to supplements or herbs.
- Pain, bruising or injury from venipuncture or acupuncture
- Fainting or puncturing of an organ with acupuncture needles
- Muscle strains and sprains or disc injuries from spinal manipulation
